Gmail recovery email not showing as a recovery option

I lost the phone number to my old 2FA'd Gmail account, and I have a recovery email tied to that account. I have access to the recovery email, and it allowed me to use that, but my PC crashed while I was signing into the recovery email. Now the recovery email doesn't even show as an option anymore, and instead it says it emails the recovery email to the account I'm trying to get in in the first place.

Is there any way to get back the option to use my recovery email? Thank you!

Hello,

Account recovery form is the only option provided by Google to recover your account; Google does not provide other options. Hence, if you want to recover your account, you will have to use account recovery form.

Before submitting account recovery form, make sure to take note of the recommended steps you need to follow when submitting account recovery form:

- How to recover your Google account:
<https://support.google.com/accounts/answer/7682439>
- Tips to complete your account recovery form:
<https://support.google.com/accounts/answer/7299973>
- For additional info, you may also check this article: <http://gmailaccountrecovery.blogspot.com/>.
- Kindly use account recovery form from previous logged in location/ip address and used device for your Gmail/Google account as Google will also check it in the backend.
- If you are unable to provide one of the verification details such as 2sv or backup code or recovery phone or email address, you may skip it by selecting "Try another way" in account recovery form.

Kindly use account recovery form with the recommended steps highlighted in the help articles above:
