Weird result when pressing unsubscribe button in Gmail

In Gmail, there is the button
you press the get Gmail to unsubscribe
you from unwanted emails.

I have noticed whenever I click on one it says
"Are you sure you'd like to stop receiving similar messages from 7226027_10459
0.xt.local? Learn more"

I noticed sometimes it
says

#####.xt.local
but other times
it says what it actually is. What is going on? For example, it had
#####.xt.local
for Pizza Hut, Nintendo and 23andme, but it correctly had name for several other
emails.

(I have a Google
Products Forum
thread here too

Hey Reddit!
I'm Frank.
I'm officially
Oscar
Mayer's
unofficial Reddit
representative. I've been given a bunch of gold to reward for the best
suggestions
of your favorite place to chill with a hot dog.
Front stoop?
Igloo? Let us

know because this summer dog is looking for somewhere to chill.

You've put off building your website long enough. With Squarespace, you can launch your business, project, portfolio, or brand in no time. (Not literally. More like 30 minutes.) Let's get started.
