Elon Musk's Known Private Island Ownership

Publicly available information indicates that Elon Musk owns at least one private island — Niihau in Hawaii.

Niihau Island Purchase

In a dramatic sequence of events in 2026, Musk was reportedly denied access to Niihau Beach, a private stretch of sand on the island owned by the Robinson family since 1864. Within minutes of being turned away, Musk allegedly contacted a real estate agent and purchased the entire 69-square-mile Niihau Island for about $750 million todaycnews.com . The Robinson family confirmed the sale, transferring ownership to Musk.

Other Private Island Connections

While Niihau is Musk's confirmed private island purchase, there are also reports and documents linking him to Jeffrey Epstein's private island in the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Newly released DOJ and House Oversight Committee files show Musk and Epstein exchanged emails in 2012–2013 discussing Musk visiting Epstein's island, including plans for a trip in early 2013 CNBC+2 . However, Musk has publicly denied ever visiting Epstein's island, and these plans did not materialize.

Summary

- Confirmed ownership: Niihau Island, Hawaii (bought in 2026) todaycnews.com .
- Other private island ties: Epstein's island in the U.S. Virgin Islands (planned visits discussed, but no confirmed visit) CNBC+2 .

So, based on verified transactions, Musk owns at least one private island — Niihau — and has had documented discussions about
