AI Overview

President Donald Trump is not physically in Chicago. He spent the weekend in Washington, D.C. for the 250th anniversary celebrations and is currently at a NATO summit in Turkey. He has not had a recent scheduled or permanent presence in the city. TODAY.com +1

While political tensions regarding his administration's policies, immigration crackdowns, and the deployment of National Guard troops have been a major source of friction, his administration operates from the White House. AP News · Bridget Brown +3
